We are chameleons. We are able to adapt ourselves to what is around us, whether it is with different environments or different people.

But what is even more special about us is that we are not only able to adapt but able to change ourselves according to what we truly want. And discovering that great mystery of our true selves is one of the most amazing joys we can have. When inhibitions are drawn back, and we lose our fear of judgments from others, the desire of what we choose to be, what we choose to create and express is endless.

For some, wearing costume is a lifestyle, like a bold dominatrix for whom the role play and the instruments of domination are required. With the burdens of decorum and social obligations, we normally hide ourselves under layers of vague disguises not meant for us. Perhaps that may be why Halloween is a holiday cherished by many. It is a day when you can take it all off and choose to put on something that screams out loud your unique self.

Just as the attire is an extension of our inner self, we at the MV Mag strive to show you the truest form of our creativity and passion. Our outer appearance may change from cover to cover, but what we are inside doesn't change. Always remembering what the magazine is in its purest form enables us to craft our disguise in its best form. This issue is no exception.

With Catjira as a beautiful Snow White, Housewifeswag as a stunning Mad Hatter, Rabbit Magick as a sexy nurse, Ivy Jones as a naughty Tinker Bell, and, last but not least, our two cover girls: Goddess Helly and Goddess Valora in their natural state - fierce and dominant.

So put on your armor of choice and show what you're really made of. This is the Art of Disguise issue..

It's time to unleash our inner beasts!

MV 1. How did you decide that the domme lifestyle was right for you?

GV It's not so much a "domme lifestyle" for me as it is a BDSM lifestyle. I have been a novice kinkster since I was a teenager, although I didn't really know much about it, and back then there weren't a lot of outlets for information in my small home town. When I moved to Orlando in 2014 to start my fetish career, that's when I started learning everything about the BDSM world, power exchange dynamics, roles, etc. I am a switch in my personal life which is the best duality in my opinion because you become better at each role each time you play.

2. What advice would you give to someone who wants to tap into their dominant side?

Not to sound negative, but not everyone has that side. I believe a lot of people do, but I have met a few "true subs" if you will, who cannot be dominant in any situation. Being a dom or sub can both be powerful roles in their own right. I mean after all, any domme/dom worth his or her stripes knows that a scene revolves around the sub's consent and limits which renders the sub in charge. But don't tell the submissive that.

3. Before becoming Goddess Valora, what exactly were you doing?

I worked regular jobs like everyone else. I got into adult entertainment back in 2010 on a cam site, then was casted by Playboy to work on their live cam website after a casting call later that year. I took a break for a few years, mainly shot pinup stuff and did burlesque in DC and Baltimore in my spare time.

The crack of a whip
over an ass is so satisfying

4. What is your favorite toy/tool to use on a submissive?

That's a good question. My sadism is creative so I like to use a combination of things at once during a session. I pack a lot of random stuff in my toy bag and freestyle with it in session. Not much tops corporal punishment though. The crack of a whip or a crack of a paddle over an ass is just so satisfying.

5. What do you love the most about dominating your submissives?

Chemistry, if it's there. You don't always have chemistry with subs and that's natural. But when it's there and I can feed off of that energy, that's what I love.

6. Tell us about your most memorable moment as a domme.

They're really all memorable moments. Even events that occur that seem forgettable are important to me. Whether it's a goddess strap-on gangbang on a sissy, publicly humiliating a sub, or even just hanging out as regular people, it's all memorable. Hell, I save every 'thank you' letter from anyone who's ever sent a chastity key haha.

7. Dommes' outfits are often an extension of the power and domination they exert on their subs. What are your favorite things to wear during a session?

It depends on the session and how much of a slut the sub is. Latex is always great no matter what, but second to that would have to be corset, shiny leggings, and knee high stripper boots. It's classic.

8. They say that there are as many fetishes as there are people. Do different men crave different methods of domination? Or are they all generally after the same thing?

The fetish spectrum itself is insanely large. Over the years I've figured out that if a woman (or gay man) can do anything, it's immediately a fetish. But as far as the femdom stuff goes, that's a long list of genres and categories. I really like when someone comes with a specific list of what they like rather than the dopey "I like what you like Goddess...no, I don't have any limits" bullshit.

9. What do you do in order to break a new sub?

I ask a lot of questions, go over limits and safe words then I have them strip naked and start head fucking them in correlation with what they're into. This could involve whispering things in their ear or having them crawl on their hands and knees with a collar and leash on as I remind them of their place with me. Sometimes all it takes is one look. It really depends.

10. Does getting dressed for a session help you get more into character or does it just reinforce your natural dominance?

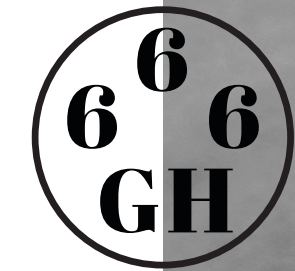

Dressing for the occasion is more for a submissive than myself. I already know who and what Goddess Valora is. My attire is how it is to make sure that they know immediately what I'm all about. How unimpressive would it be to go to a lawyer and see them at their desk in their PJs? They know that they're capable of winning a case, but would you guess that by looking at them in that attire? You wouldn't take them seriously. The same goes for a domme. If I look the part, your mind is more willing to fall into place with your fantasies.

11. What would you say to all of the men out there who are drooling at the thought of serving you?

Haha, get a towel and clean your face off, slut! If you want to serve me online, start with a tribute to show me you're serious. For all real time sessions, you can contact me on MV or through my website. Or you can be a wannabe loser for the rest of your life. It's up to you.

I would like to orchestrate
a consensual kidnapping
one day.

MV 1. How did you enter the world of kink and domination?

GH Quite naturally. I had been participating in the fetish scene since I was 18. When I started webcamming 5 years ago, I noticed that I drew in a lot of submissives and sissy fans, whose kinks I most enjoyed so I went with it. It was all very organic.

2. Tell us about the most enjoyable domme session you’ve ever had.

Perhaps it was the 2 years of service that I experienced from a live in sissy that I will call “London”. During that time, I helped him shed his “stupid man image” and grow into a full time makeup and skirt wearing whore that he always wanted to be. When I let him go, he went on to live full time as a tranny. It was quite fulfilling to watch him come out to his friends and co-workers.

3. Outside of dominating submissives, do you have any other passions?

Yes - I’m an entrepreneur and currently own two businesses. I’m also studying Reiki healing, meditation and yoga. Side note - Whenever I see a man in my yoga class doing a “plow pose” I can’t help but think to myself how much better his face would look with a load of cum on it. LOL! My mind has been forever corrupted!

4. If a submissive is being too disobedient, or does something without your permission, what type of punishment do you inflict?

My favorite punishment is the silent treatment. I will ghost that loser until he comes crawling back begging me for forgiveness. Sometimes I let him back in, but if he’s really pissed me off, he’s gone from my evil empire forever.

5. Do you have a favorite style of outfit to wear while you are being served?

Anything tight and black. Leather leggings, platform patent leather boots, a corset and spiked bustier is my go-to uniform. Also, I love throwing on a military hat so my slave can’t see my eyes, which can be very scary for them.

6. Is there any kink that you haven’t tried yet, but would like to?

Hmmm - good question. I would like to orchestrate a consensual kidnapping one day.

7. Do you have any advice you'd like to give to new dommes beginning their journey in this lifestyle?

Research your role. Don't go into it uneducated or you will be the one getting controlled. Seek out a mentor that you respect and has gained the respect of her community.

8. Dommes have mentioned that the outfits that they wear, all the latex and leather, is like an armour that soldiers wear to battle. Does the outfit that you put on affect your attitude as a dominatrix in anyway?

It has an effect but I consider my armor to be intimate knowledge of what makes my slave tick. I ask a lot of questions prior to a session to really get inside the slave's mind (as pathetic as it can be at times).

9. Have you ever humiliated a sub in public?

Yes - all the time! I was married for five years, so I became quite adept at emasculating a man in public.

I look forward to corrupting
your feeble mind”

10. What are some main differences in dominating men in real life, versus doing it online?

Online is more reliant on mind-fuckery, and it can take longer to really get to know a sub. However, some of the most rewarding D/s relationships I've had are with online submissives. Real life and real time sessions have their differences because there's the physical encounter, which can be quite telling. It all comes down to intimacy levels and how soon a sub is able to really open up to me.

11. Lastly, what would you like to say to the subs reading this who yearn for your punishing touch?

Always address me as Goddess, Mistress or my Superior. When you're ready to relinquish your manhood, you have my permission to seek out an online session with me. Finally, if you can't afford an online session, another way to show your willingness to serve me is through supporting my vids. I look forward to corrupting your feeble mind, and turning you into the biggest sissy/jerk puppet/mind-fucked loser you can be!

Want more?

Get dominated.
Your Goddesses are waiting for you.

Wear It Sexy: common misconceptions about women's Halloween costumes

As said in Mean Girls, Halloween is the one night where women can dress as sexy as possible without anyone judging them. Except, they do judge. And nowadays there are so many people telling how women shouldn't dress in sexy costumes. How that devalues them. How that's a sign of all sorts of negative sexual connotations, because you know, women don't already get enough shit from society right?

But you know what? You should say, "Fuck it. I'm gonna dress sexy." You want to put on a leotard, some stockings, a pair of mouse ears and go as a sexy mouse?

Because we are about to tear apart the big judgments people make when they see women in costumes that show too much skin in their opinion.

YOU HAVE NO IMAGINATION

Or maybe not everyone has an entire week of free time to figure costumes out. Or maybe not everyone has enough money to lavishly decorate themselves for Halloween. But we all want to go out and have fun. Especially on Halloween. Who wants to stay home on Halloween unless, well, you don’t like fun.

Just because someone chose the easy way out doesn’t mean that she doesn’t have any creativity. Come on, at least she is wearing a costume. You know who’s really lame? People who show up to Halloween parties without any costume on. We all know there’s plenty of those.

YOU’RE LOOKING FOR MALE ATTENTION

“There is a very common misconception that if a girl is showing too much skin it is definitely for drawing male attention.

This is not the case. Gasp, how dare women dress up sexy to just feel sexy and good for themselves? Well, last time we checked, women dressing sexy is about exuding confidence rather than getting guys to slobber over them.

Not to mention that male attention is quite easy for many women to draw. They don’t need to get all dressed up to get men to approach them. Heck, a woman can just put t-shirt and jeans on and she’ll get tons of attention.

Women should be able to feel sexy on their own terms.

YOU'RE PROMISCUOUS

Please, it's 2017. People like to have sex. Women like to have sex. Women also like to look sexy without necessarily seeking to have sex. In fact, just assume that women looking sexy has no correlation with women wanting to have sex. Women want to look sexy AND have sex, but those two are separate things.

So don't assume that the girl wearing less fabric on Halloween is somehow more likely be down to do it.

YOU HAVE NO RESPECT FOR YOURSELF

Once again. Women should be able to feel sexy on their own terms, and that goes the same for Halloween. Whether or not women decide to wear a sexy Halloween costume doesn't change anything about who they are and how they should be treated.

So out you go. Don't give a fuck about what people say. Dress as a sexy pizza, a sexy nun, or a sexy bear. Heck, be a sexy box of Chinese food, a sexy ball of lint, a sexy Ikea desk. Because let us tell you, your body is yours. Do what you want to do with it. Let no one else judge you for showing your thighs or letting your boob out just a bit more. You are you. So you do you. Wear what you want, and feel as sexy as you want to feel.

Discovering Our Desires: The Three Elements of Finding Our Fetish

We all dream about escaping outside of our own lives. Be someone else, fantasize about extraordinary situations. And this is especially true when it comes to our sexual lives. Roleplay is a big staple in fetishes. Take for example, the classic fetish, Dominance and submission, otherwise commonly known as D/s. D/s is essentially a binary roleplay. One is at a dominant position, exerting control over a submissive, who is commonly named a 'slave'. Whether they really are dominant or submissive people in real life doesn't matter. It is that they get pleasure from playing that role.

And as many D/s fetishes involve latex garments and much leather, choosing the right costume for sex is also a big part of roleplay fantasy. From simple French maid costumes to full on furry fantasies, people really like to dress up when it comes to sex.

Which may explain the current trend of cosplay porn. Increasingly, across camsites and vid platforms, cosplay pornography is on the rise across camsites and vid platforms. Many independent adult performers have found their success in cosplaying as characters from films, animations, video games, comics and more.

Such a fetish can be brushed off as being simply about the sex itself. In many cases, it is easy to think that a sexual version of anything will be welcomed. While there is some truth in the old adage of 'sex sells', behind every woman pleasing a man in a school uniform, behind every man pretending to be a pizza delivery man and his wife a welcoming stranger, there is an important mix of three elements: fantasy, costume, and roleplay.

The Fantasy

The beginning of any fantasy for roleplay is the fantasy itself. People need to fantasize about something in order to have a craving for it. There are many ways that a sexual fantasy can develop. One of the most obvious is that a fantasy is about something we're missing in life. For instance, according to academics, if a man is fantasizing about a woman that is not his current partner, it is likely because that woman in his fantasy possesses characters that his current partner does not have.

A related idea to this is that our fantasies are also in big parts about what we cannot have. Like the widely known fantasy about school teachers, or the exhaustively practiced fantasy of a boss and his secretary. And this is also why characters from works of fiction are often subjects of sexual fantasies. Since they are fictional, they are literally unattainable. And depending on the level of interaction with that fictional character, the fantasy for them becomes even stronger, which can explain why there's a big scene for cosplay pornography based on video game characters.

The other thing is that fantasies often revolve around strangers. This has been said to be caused by the fact that it satisfies our raw, primitive side of us that we mask in real life. There's no need for emotional connection, and there is only sex. Which is why one of the most common fantasies revolve around faceless people in uniforms we may interact with in daily life, such as delivery men and plumbers. Since there's no need for anything other than physical bonding, the important part becomes the outfit which sets the context that this is an anonymous hookup.

Which leads to the next important part: the costume.

Chapter 2

The Costume

As mentioned before, the costume is much more than an outfit. It is what sets the context and tone of the sexual engagement. If the fantasy can be compared to a stack of dry firewood that is ready to burn, the costume is what lights the fire.

Take for instance, the popularity of cosplay pornography. Cosplay depicts characters from fictional works, which means that they are impossible to meet in real life. They are, in the purest sense of the word, a fantasy. So once there is a channel through which the impossible fantasy is actually made possible, the response is very strong. Not to mention that they often have highly loyal fandoms. The costume is a critical aspect in this case.

But even more than just depicting a character via outward appearance, costumes are important for setting up context. When a man wants his partner to dress up in a school uniform, it is not only the appearance of his partner in the school uniform that the man desires. It is what that represents. Things like the guise of innocence, the lure of youth, and the excitement of inexperience. All of these things are meshed into the costume.

Context doesn't stop there. A really good costume also contributes toward establishing the setting and the situation. Many sex fantasies revolve heavily around specific situations, like the aforementioned delivery men fantasy. For instance, a fantasy about a sexy nurse may be about the nurse herself, but it also involves the situation. The taboo setting of the hospital, the excitement of an unusual situation of being a patient. The nurse uniform is what brings all of that together.

Therefore, the costume is much more about the outer fabric. That brings us to the next part: the roleplay.

Chapter 3

The Roleplay

Just having the costume is not enough however. As mentioned before, the costume is not important only for its appearance, but for what it represents. The other meanings behind the costume itself. Which means that this is where the person in the costume becomes very important.

An important part of roleplay is exactly that. Playing the role. The one in costume needs to really be immersed in the experience and be convincing enough as the character so much that whoever the person was before the costume is forgotten.

Which is why certain girls in the industry perform better in the genre of cosplay than others. If cosplay was really just about the 'cos' part of the fetish, then all girls who

People really like to dress up when it comes to sex.

In cosplay porn, the 'play' is the key.

get the costume part right would be equally successful, which is obviously not the case. The 'play' is what distinguishes some of the top cosplay girls from others. Successful models bring depth to the fantasy that they are playing out by knowing the fictional characters that they are cosplaying, which helps them to actually be that character, who is the principal subject of the fantasy. That makes sure that the viewer is getting the most authentic experience as possible.

Being in character is of course, something that requires some practice, which is why it's also good to incorporate the right kind of environment. If it's an office fantasy, then actually incorporate a desk, a chair, maybe a pen holder. All of it is very important in carrying out the role.

On paper, the three elements are seemingly quite easy to combine. However, it can be very difficult to cater to someone’s unique fantasy. Every person has a different kind of sexual fantasy, and getting the right kind of costumes, let alone getting immersed into the right kind of character, can be quite a challenge.

A few suggestions to this however. The first obviously is communication. You must be able to communicate very openly with your partner. This is because many feel anxious and nervous to share their fantasies with their significant others. Another is that it’s all about trial and error. There’s a lot that goes into the perfect sex fantasy and just because you were clumsy the first time and wasn’t really that hot, doesn’t mean you can’t improve it and try another time.

And most importantly, explore what your own fantasies are, and discover where your expectations really lie. You can’t possibly be satisfied when you don’t even know your own sexual fantasies. Try a little role play, and you might be surprised by what you discover about your true self.

Society is slowly beginning to accept that not everyone wants a vanilla sex life. There are some of us who simply crave more, who have deeper, darker desires that cannot be fulfilled with the mundane sexual acts of everyday life. Instead of being left unsatisfied, we find salvation in the world of BDSM. It's a community where we can explore our sexual dreams without judgment and finally feel at peace with our sexuality as we accept ourselves for who we are.

You are a dominatrix living in a 4 bedroom home. Most of your house resembles that of an average woman; the only difference is the basement. You have transformed the space into one of the most notorious dungeons in your area and use it for local BDSM play nights. You enjoy hosting these events because:

- ✓ A It gives you the chance to meet new submissive boys and take the ones you want under your wing.
- B You enjoy watching everyone else engage with each other and express their sexual freedom. It's empowering.
- H I love meeting new pets. I require my subs to have a precise understanding of my rules from the start. I expect them to show the utmost respect for me in their day to day servitude and when representing me to others nearby.

MV 2

It's an average Saturday night in your playroom. The only difference is that tonight "Beta" will be there. Beta is a submissive you started talking to recently online. His real name is Billy but you call him Beta because he obviously is not an Alpha. It's his first time venturing into this lifestyle and after 2 weeks discussing hard and soft limits, you feel it's time to introduce him to your world. The doorbell rings and you know it's him. You:

A Leave him waiting outside for a few minutes before opening the door. He will learn fast that he doesn't come first. You do.

B Open the door promptly but make him stand there to greet the rest of the guests and take their coats. He needs to know this won't be easy but that such obedience is exactly what he seeks.

NEITHER. He arrives through the back of the building, crawling through the slave door that leads him directly into his pigpen in the main room. He's wearing his specialty pet outfit, a full bodied latex pig costume covered by a fitted butler uniform. He's ready for his first outing into the world of BDSM.

MV 3

Once everyone arrives, you lead him to the basement on his hands and knees and tell him not to look up. He stares at the floor the whole way until he gets to the bottom of the stairs where he asks politely if he can stand. You:

A Stand him up and put a leash on him so you can walk him around and introduce him to everyone at the party, along with the interesting gadgets you have for playtime.

✓ B Tell him no and say that if he asks again he will be forced to become a piece of furniture for the rest of the night. Then proceed to walk him around on a leash so everyone can see what a submissive little slut he is.

Knowing he is not to speak unless spoken to, I punish him by making him clean the bottom of my shoes with his tongue. Stepping on it gently, I remind him of his place.

You know he will soon be begging you to serve again

MV 4

You start by showing him the bondage station then walk him over to the highly sought after, slightly intense torture station where you will inflict him with most of the pain he fantasizes about. This is where his dreams will all come true. You want to tease him before continuing the tour so you:

- ✓ A Lay him on the table face down and start pouring hot candle wax onto his body to give him a taste of what's coming.
- ✓ B Roll the Wartenberg pinwheel over his back and legs so he feels the tingling sensation and knows that you could ruin him with a little more pressure. For now, you just want to drive him wild.

BOTH. I begin with the hot wax to wake up his senses. He is aware of everything, waiting for another drip of the wax and feeling the tension leave his body as he gives in to the pain. I then very carefully take the Wartenburg pinwheel and draw up from his feet, pressing down lightly then slowly drawing more pressure as I near the inside of his thighs.

By now he has a pretty good idea of what this place is about. It's time to play a little before his introduction night is over. You finally grant him permission to stand so he can watch the other guests have fun indulging in their desires. He gets a bit too excited so you:

A Put him in a cage under the bed. This way he can see and hear everything that's happening but is confined in a space that's too small for him to do anything about it.

✓ B Lock his cock in a chastity device so he will squirm without being able to take action. Show him the true meaning of restraint before you release him for the evening.

I allow a female sub I am training be the one to lock him up. He should not look her in the eye but instead look at me from his knees and thank me as she makes sure the device is secure.

It's time to let him go - he has had enough for his first night. He leaves $200 on your table before walking out and you can see the satisfaction welling in heart from the bright smile adorning his face. Before you close the door he asks permission to return next Saturday but you say nothing. You know he will soon be begging you to serve again and this time you will kick it up a few notches!

Petite pixie Ivy Jones makes magic as this month's featured XXXplicit model. The blonde girl-next-door isn't shy to use her charms (and her wand) to cast an intoxicating spell in this fairy fantasy.

MV 1. How did you begin your journey in the industry?

IJ I love being a part of the adult industry! For me, the journey began when I was watching a documentary about cam girls. It looked like a fun way to earn money and at the time I was a broke college student! I had nude photos of me taken for my cam profile by a fellow student of mine (a photographer). It was very liberating for me. After camming and pursuing nude modeling, I began exotic dancing after receiving a speeding ticket and after a lot of my money had been going towards clothes for my sorority's recruitment events. I eventually was asked to resign from the sorority due to my involvement with the adult industry. After that, I became a girl-girl actress in the adult film industry! I have been loving my life and my new-found freedom ever since!

2. You mentioned that you're an archaeology student. Why archaeology?

I chose to study archaeology because it is a very interesting and exciting field! As a society, how can we make the right decisions in the future if we don't reference our decisions of the past? I think it is very important to remember and study the past! I feel like a detective when I am staring at a dilapidated building that was buried under the dirt. I get to use my knowledge and imagination to picture what the structure used to look like and what its purpose may have been!

3. What do you like to do when you want to relax and unwind after a long day?

After a long day I like to come home and take off my clothes, then cook myself something delicious and nutritious to eat. After that, I will usually be pretty horny as I like to get off multiple times a day. I'll play with my Hitachi while maybe making a custom video! Then I like to relax more and watch a movie (I prefer scary movies).

4. You currently have a 'Fund Me' on ManyVids for MUFON (Mutual UFO Network) Field Investor Certification. Can you explain that to us?

I love sci-fi and I love to watch documentaries about aliens and UFOs! Wouldn't it be cool to know a sexy little blonde UFO field investigator who runs around in her glasses and examines the evidence?! Sounds like a pretty cool idea to me! I think being that sort of a detective would be out of this world! All I need is to pay for the online course and voila! I can make all of the naughty sci-fi themed videos I want!

5. What's your biggest sexual kink?

I have a bit of a cum fetish! I want to be completely filled with cum! Do you think I could handle it? I am also into a shopping fetish where I get to try clothes on for you!

6. Where was the most memorable place you had sex?

One of the most memorable places that I have had sex would be on a fire escape. Thank goodness it was a warm night!

7. Tell us about the strangest sexual encounter you've ever had.

I did a CPR fetish video once with a very beautiful stripper from Portland, OR. Her lips were so soft and she smelled so good. I couldn't help but be aroused (we never did end up making love, however). Also, I have had sex with someone in a Creature from the Black Lagoon suit. Aside from that, toe sucking and receiving a golden shower are quite memorable experiences for me!

8. Describe your wildest adventure?

I lived in Belize for a month while working at an archaeological site in the jungle! It was very hot and humid, there were lots of strange creatures and monkeys threw things at me! I will never forget this experience and I hope to have more adventures and travel the world some day!

9. If you could produce a porn video with anyone, including people unrelated to the adult industry, who would it be?

If I could produce erotic content with anyone, I would produce content with Rod Serling from The Twilight Zone. He had a very creative mind and I bet we could have come up with something great (if he were still alive). I have been watching The Twilight Zone since I was a little girl. I suppose I have had a crush on him for quite some time!

10. What is the number one item on your bucket list right now?

To travel the world!

11. What is the one thing you would like to ask an alien visiting you from another planet?

I would ask if they would like to share knowledge with one another! If they have been able to create the technology to travel to our world, they must be more advanced than us. I would like for them to share how humans can achieve a society that is less divided, with ways to pivot towards clean energy to help our planet!

12. What does wearing costumes mean to you and how does it make you feel?

I love wearing costumes because they help me express myself! It is fun to pretend to be someone else in roleplay; it brings in a new and exciting aspect to your pleasure. Halloween is my favorite holiday because I get to experience one night dressed as whoever or whatever I would like to be!

13. Is role play during sex something fun for you? If so, what is your favorite scenario?

Role play during sex is very exciting! I have always had a doctor/patient fantasy that I have yet to act out! For the time being I am enjoying age-play as I like to be a baby girl!

14. If you could only wear 5 costumes for the rest of your life, what would they be?

A cheerleader costume, a fetish latex costume (femdom), a Victorian queen costume, a mermaid costume and my birthday suit of course (although I suppose that last one isn't really a costume, is it?)

15. If you could become a pint-sized fairy like Tinkerbell for a day, what would you do and why?

If I were tiny like Tinkerbell for a day, I would like to experience the world being able to fly! I would want to explore the outdoors, fly over the beach and spend time in a garden.

16. What fictional character do you relate to the most, and why?

In the morning, Godzilla (I am not a morning person)! The rest of the time, I think I would be more like Mulan. She knew what was important to her and was a very hard worker. She did whatever it took to reach her goals and I am the same way! She was also a late bloomer, and so am I. Like the quote from the movie Mulan, "the flower that blooms in adversity is the most rare and beautiful of all".

17. Would you like to say some final words for your fans?

I would love to tell all of my fans that you mean so much to me, especially when I get so much encouragement from you to keep being and expressing myself! I would love for all of my MV fans to follow me on Twitter and on Instagram. I hope that everyone enjoys reading my answers and wants to check out my profile!

Dear Love Doctor,

My husband and I have been looking into ways to spice up our sex life. We have watched porn together, visited our local sex shop together, and even experimented with different toys. We are enjoying every step of the journey, and have considered trying a threesome at some point in the future too. Recently I suggested Roleplay because I see that there is a trend these days with costumes and dressing up during sex. He did not really confirm that this is something he is into but I would really like to try it out! How can I take this a step further without making him uncomfortable?

Sincerely,

Horny Housewife

Dear Horny Housewife,

The only thing I am wondering is why you are so hesitant to try something that will surely bring your sexual relationship to a new level? There is a reason that costumes and roleplay are popular, because they work. Imagine that you two could play out all of the fantasies you ever had with the help of a few pieces of clothing. You'd be surprised how quickly you will get into character once you put it on! The possibilities are endless when it comes to costumes. You can become a character, or just a different version of yourself with certain outfits (school girl, police woman, damsel in distress, etc.) This is a safe and fun way to explore your darkest desires while remaining loyal to the one you love. I would suggest you don't wait any longer. Go home and put on an outfit that you know he would enjoy, and I guarantee he won't be able to keep his hands off of you!

Love Doctor

Hey Love Doctor,

My girlfriend is going to some Halloween party on Saturday night with her friends and it's been on my mind all week. I am trying my best not to sound like a jealous asshole but admittedly, I kinda am. I dunno if it's the fact that her friends are all promiscuous, or even worse that she will be wearing BARELY NOTHING in order to become some sort of non existent semi-nude ninja turtle, but I can't help but feel pissed about it. I know that makes me seem insecure, but she is so hot. Won't dudes hit on her all night? What should I do?

Bummed Out Boyfriend

Bummed Out Boyfriend,

I feel like this was more of a confession than a cry for help. Although you probably already know the answer to your inquiry, I will restate it so that you can feel better about the way you feel. Do you trust your girlfriend? If not, why are you with her? If yes, get over it. If your girlfriend loves you as much as you love her and you are in a trusting relationship there is no need for your jealousy to bring out the worst in you. Being a jerk about a situation you can't control will not make her stay home, or wear a morphsuit to cover up. The truth is, she is going to the party as that ninja turtle with or without your approval. The only decision you get to make is whether or not you will make a fuss about it. I can't say it will help though. She may find it cute that you are jealous and reconsider her costume, or she may get annoyed with your insecurities and act on impulse. My advice would be to just let her live, love her, and trust her until she gives you a reason not to!

Regards,

Love Doctor

Dear Lover of Pleasure & Pain,

First I would like to say, don't make yourself sound abnormal because you are not. If people can widely accept things like spanking, choking, etc. in everyday sex, then you are not any more different for the things you desire. I think saving money is smart, as long as you are indulging every so often as a reward as well. You deserve it. When it comes to dating, I would say you need to take things a little more slowly. The powerful woman you yearn for is out there, you just have to let her come to you, and let her show her true colors. Maybe the women you have been on dates with do have a dominant side, but you haven't given them the chance. After all, nobody brings handcuffs and paddles to their first date. First, focus on finding a woman whose personality aligns with yours, and then together you can build a bedroom relationship that works for you both. Don't give up, and always remember that having fun and enjoying your life is important! Never stop exploring your sexual side!

All the best,

Love Doctor

Dear Love Doctor,

Earlier this year I started experimenting with some local BDSM dungeons and rapidly began enjoying the scene. Fast forward 9 months later and I have 3 active dom/sub relationships on the rise. I have live sessions with beautiful dominatrix women at least once a week. If I skip a week, I feel deprived and crave some obedience. This obviously can become quite costly even with a great job, so I am trying my best to space out my visits and save some cash. It gets lonely when you are always working and living alone so I thought the dating scene could be refreshing again. I went on a couple dates and ended up leaving early to come home. I can't explain it, but I feel that the girls these days are so vanilla. It probably has a lot to do with the fact that I love being dominated, but how hard is it to just find someone who wants to have brunch together during the day, but also wants to tie me up and whip me while sitting on my face at night?
